The south and the volcanoes The excursion starts off in from our hotel in direction of the National Timanfaya Park of Timanfaya.

Whoever comes to visit the island must go to visit the Timanfaya National Park a unique surrounding created by Nature during the almost 6 years eruptions of 1730/1736.

The Park is filled with myriad volcanic landscapes unfolding one after another. At the Islote de Hilario (Hilario's Islet) geothermal demonstrations are held periodically to show visitors the effects of up to 400° centigrade temperatures found just beneath the surface.

After this visit we continue towards the south west coast where we will enjoy a little walk to approach a natural lagoon formed by sea-water filtering in from the ocean in el Golfo.

Then we will drive you into the Valley of La Geria., which landscape is unmistakable and its layers of lava are the most distinctive on Lanzarote, exhibiting a unique system of grapevines growing in pits hollowed out of the lava cinders and protected from the wind by walls built of lava-stone. The legendary golden, refreshing Malmsey wine is the heady result of this method of cultivation.

We'll stop at the Bodegas Stratvs for the visit of this gorgeous Winery (one of the most modern winery in Europe) and have lunch there as well.

Lunch wine cellar and restaurant

The architectural style of the Bodegas STRATVS was designed with the utmost consideration for the surrounding landscape and its status as a protected area. On the farm, located in the Barranco del Obispo (the Bishop's Ravine), the old farmhouse has been preserved. The winery and its installations have been built underground, thus preserving the ravine's original topography. Local materials with a low visual impact were used in its construction, such as volcanic stone, iron and wood. Here we will have the opportunity to taste some wines of this wine cellar with local cheese before having lunch.
