

Stockholm

Stockholm is famous for its green spaces which occupy no less than 40% of the city area. Amidst wild hedges and bike paths, the Djurgården peninsula is home to some of the city's finest museums, including the famous Vasa warship that sank in Stockholm Bay during her maiden voyage. From the Vasa, you will bike (if you chose the sporty version) to either ABBA museum, Prins Eugen Waldemarsudde, considered as the most beautiful art museum of Sweden or Skansen, the world's oldest open-air museum. Whatever your choice, you will be charmed by the unique atmosphere of the place. Lunch by the water will add to the enchantment of the day.

After a well-deserved rest, you will continue the discovery of Swedish gastronomy, an inventive cuisine that showcases local and seasonal products.
