

Program idea Alaska

Alaska – The Great Land, the Last Frontier, 20% of the entire United States! The majestic land boasts 1.5 million km² of wilderness, borders two oceans and three seas, encompasses tundra and glacier crested mountains, contains three thousand rivers, three million lakes, houses five thousand glaciers, and is the home of Mt. McKinley – North America's largest mountain at 6,190 meters. It is needless to say – Alaska is huge and full of untamed wilderness, abundant wildlife and stunning natural beauty.

For many decades it taunted explorers of all kinds and even today it still defies modern-day adventures for an experience of a lifetime. Watch grizzly bears catching their salmon meal and marvel at the breathtaking views behind every corner. Visiting the Last Frontier promises a lasting impact, as it becomes part of your soul.

Alaska – It can change your life forever

Day 1

Arrive Anchorage and start city tour with visit of Anchorage museum

Take a tour around Downtown Anchorage, watching the salmon spawn in Ship Creek, taking in views of Cook Inlet and the Alaska Range, and see the history at the Alaska Statehood Monument and the historic Alaska Railroad terminal.

The Anchorage Museum

The largest museum in Alaska, the Anchorage Museum is a community-based institution with exhibits and programs on the art, history and cultures of Alaska. Over 20 exhibitions are presented each year to more than 200,000 visitors. The Museum features standing exhibits as well as a dynamic mix of revolving exhibits including the 2010 Star Wars: Where Science Meets Imagination. Exhibits celebrate art, science, Alaskan feats and history, and much more.

Lunch at Sourdough Mining Company

Our lunch will be served in a replica of an old mill, the Sourdough Mining Company. We will be treated with a "family style" meal, including salad, fries, two different meats and, of course, the restaurant's famous homemade corn fritters with whipped honey butter.

Day 2

Visit ULU Factory

The Ulu knife is the most renowned knife in Alaska. Native people of northern Alaska invented this knife centuries ago. It is used for hunting, fishing, skinning, filleting and every other imaginable domestic cutting need by the Inuit.
