

Belgrade is famous for its exciting night life. Wherever you go, you'll be greeted by a positive vibe that will make you feel at home, as if among friends. People go out on all nights of the week, and they do it spontaneously - at any given time and regardless of the amount of work that awaits them the following day. The most exciting and busiest nights out on the town are not dictated by the day of the week but by circumstances and events. Floating river clubs are a special feature of Belgrade nightlife. They vary in size, customer capacity and type of music played. As they are far from residential zones, the party can last till dawn, especially if the guests are in good spirits.
